

HEART LIKE A SPONGE
© 2008 Rebecca Roubion

If I could have one thing alone

It would be one small glimpse, just one

Of you laughing with me

I wouldn't have to reach out for your hand cause it would already be in

Mine and yours, we're a perfect fit, fastened together, we're divine

Your love has no stains, and all I have to offer you is one large mistake.

My heart's like a sponge in the lakes

Of your two watering eyes

Wish that I could brush off your face

Wish that I could take away the cry

If I could give you the chance,

If I gave you more than just one glance

I know that you could

Fill this hole in me

If I could give you back what you have given to me

But you give and you just keep right on giving

And it hurts to think that you would ever hurt for me

I just wanna soak up all of the hurt that you've been hurting

Chorus
